

Full Stack Web Developer - IT Manager

Type: Full Time Employee

OriGene Technologies is seeking a dynamic and innovative full stack web developer to join the IT team that is dedicated to building and enhancing our eCommerce platform. This position will focus on providing developer level support to both new and existing development efforts.

Main Responsibilities:

- Work with marketing team to create, edit and update web content, create compelling visual web experience in both desktop browsers and mobile devices
- Create, edit/update and recollection of data; database management; server management
- Maintain, support NetSuite system development and customization requirements
- Develop analytical reporting tools for internal decision making

Requirements:

- A Bachelor's degree in Computer Science or related field, and equivalent work experience is preferred.
- Experienced working with HTML5, CSS3 and JavaScript; UX & UI design experience preferred
- Experienced working with modern version control Systems (Git)
- Experience with SQL databases
- Excellent command of modern web browsers
- Strong understanding of AWS
- A strong desire to research and study new emerging technologies for consideration in future and ongoing development efforts
- Strong communication (written and verbal) skills
- Self-motivated
- Experience supporting and working closely with project customers
- Strong organizational and problem-solving skills with an attention to detail
- Mandarin or Chinese speaking is preferred